LIVING

APHASIA

What is APHASIA

Around 6,000 people in Devon have aphasia.

This is a language disorder that makes it difficult to understand, speak, read or write. It is usually as a result of a stroke or brain injury.

Aphasia makes communicating with words difficult however, it doesn't affect your intelligence.

Everyone is affected in different ways and it can make everyday conversations and social situations challenging.

Living with Aphasia is a charity that offers a range of activities to help rebuild confidence and social connections again. Our friendly groups support people of all ages in Exeter, East and Mid Devon.

Come along

WE'D LOVE TO MEET YOU!

Some of our weekly activities:

DROP-IN GROUP

Join us for our informal & friendly chats, with people who really understand your communication difficulties. We always have fun, sometimes down at the pub too!

I was nervous turning up the first time - worried nobody would understand me - but everyone was so friendly

SING APHASIA

Sing with no worry about words or reading and use your voice for enjoyment. You'll leave with a smile on your face, every time!

GET CREATIVE

Learn new skills and express yourself in different ways through the creative arts.

Relatives, friends and carers are very welcome. We have disabled access available and all our activities are free but, as a charity, we welcome donations.
